OUR FIRST NATIONS HISTORY:

<http://www.tourismpg.com/first-nations>

Before Europeans arrived, the Carrier Nation lived in this area. The local band was known as Lheidli T'enneh, and they lived at the junction of the Fraser and Nechako Rivers. The translation of the word Lheidli means "where the two rivers flow together" and T'enneh means "the People". Eventually, the Grand Trunk Pacific purchased the traditional land from the First Nations, who were then moved to a reserve at Shelley.

The Lheidli T'enneh covers a vast traditional territory, stretching over an area of 4.3 million hectares, from the impressive Rocky Mountains to the beautiful interior plateau.

The Lheidli T'enneh community occupies four Indian Reserves totalling approximately 675 hectares within and adjacent to the City of Prince George. By managing resources in a sustainable manner and seeking new economic opportunities, this First Nations community is keen to expand their participation on the wider global economy.

KIN CENTRE ARENAS

2187 Ospika Boulevard South, Prince George, BC, V2N 6Z1

The Kin Centre is a versatile complex complete with three arenas that hosts numerous hockey clubs, figure skating, lacrosse, and inline and ball hockey. This 50,000 square foot complex is ideal for hosting tournaments and is located in the heart of Exhibition Park. Connected to the Kin Centre is the CN Centre, a 6000 seat arena with full amenities and services. The newly updated Kin Centre, along with the CN Centre, represents the only arena in BC with two Olympic-to-NHL-size convertible rinks.

Prince George has a total of 6 arenas - more than enough to accommodate any number of hockey teams and players or any other arena sport. The Kin Centre is only minutes away from the downtown, shopping centres, accommodations, and other arena facilities.
